Straightforward and stylish layout Finance Helper for Windows 10/8.1 is an accessible and useful application that comes packed with handy options to easily keep an eye on completed payments. It also provides a notification system, to alert you when due bills are up. Set up and manage your funds The offered interface adopts a modern and dark look, showing the recurring budget, along with the expenses and incomes, divided into two distinct columns. On the left side of the panel, you can view the initial amount of money, total costs, and the remaining sum. When it's run for the first time, a short tutorial is displayed, to quickly touch every offered aspect. It can be accessed anytime from the help button. To start, first set your recurring funds, by selecting the month, year, and type. They are going to be shown one under the other, in the main panel. Sync your data with OneDrive and back it up Adding a new entry requires a few important details, like category (expense, income), frequency (e.g. one-time, daily, weekly, monthly), short description, note confirmation, web address, amount, due date, and if it's already paid. Based on the frequency, the value is deducted from the original sum, and updated accordingly. The database can be synced with Microsoft OneDrive account, and backed up at any given time. The bottom line Taking everything into consideration, Finance Helper is a reliable and intuitive program designed to be a simple and efficient utility to keep track of completed and ongoing payments and bills, and get notified when the due date is up.
