What's New in the DbHelperCreator?

It is a tool that allows you to connect to a database and create data access classes automatically. Features of dbHelperCreator: It is designed for SQLite and other android databases. It works in offline mode as well. It has two wizards to choose from and provides an option to import or export to xml. How to use dbHelperCreator? Use the application by starting the wizard. The wizard automatically generates the database and the related classes. You will see the properties of the database. Select the fields in the database that are applicable to your project. Click on the generate button. The next wizard is the Object Classes and Methods wizard. Select the type of classes and click on the generate button. Select
