Analisis Numerico.A conference on "Social Network Environments" is being held in the latter half of November in Vienna, Austria. The title of this session is: "Social Network Environments and Networking as a Service." It will take place at the University of Vienna on November 15 and 16, 2005. The conference agenda contains the following topics: * Communication and Interaction in the Social Network Environment * Group Interaction * Social Network Environments and Networking as a Service * Ethical and Legal Challenges in the Networking Community * Social Network Environments and Public Television * Social Network Environments and Virtual Worlds * Social Network Environments and Online Learning * SNS and Technology as a Double-Edged Sword If you have interest in this area, we hope that you can make it. The deadline for abstracts is April 15, 2005. Visit our website for more details. In addition, there are three paper sessions and a poster session. You can read more details from the conference website. I would like to request a list of the most important issues or problems that are currently being raised by the research community and industries. Many people have been working on research concerning the social networking environments and many real-world problems could be addressed by this research. This is not a scientific study or research, so I would like to address the most urgent problems in this post. What is the need of the research in this topic? For example, many people use online social networking sites. If it is true, there are many individuals who are always connected via network. Please understand that this is not a scientific
