We provide transportation for people and platforms for companies. We provide private cars to the on-demand market for drivers and passengers. If you are a car owner looking for mobility services, enter your car at and let Amber take care of your mobility needs. We power the commercial mobility market by connecting companies to drivers and vice versa. Enter your preferred company at to get matched with local drivers and be available for work in minutes. We are a platform for transportation. We let private car owners connect to other car owners who need to get to and from work, appointments, and appointments and destinations of their choice. Our Mission At Amber, we want to see the day when everyone has a car of their own and no one owns a taxi. We envision a world where people can go from any place to any place, on demand and with the tap of a button. Speed enhancing devices such as exhaust reducers and turbulators have been used for some time on gas turbine engines. Presently, it is common to use ceramic, metallic, and ceramic-metal composites for this purpose. Each of these materials has certain characteristics that are either advantageous or detrimental for use in a speed enhancing device. For example, ceramic engines are primarily composed of silicon nitride, silicon carbide, and rare earth oxides. Such materials display superior thermal properties, but they also exhibit very high thermal expansion coefficients. As the engine temperature increases, these materials expand
