It was released for iOS, Android, and Windows in May 2014. The game is based on a movie and stars Bruce Willis. The iOS version was released for free, while the Android version was later released on the Google Play Store for free, and a combined release of the iOS and Android version for Windows was later released for free. Gameplay The game's twist is that it is played in first-person perspective, as opposed to the third-person used in other action games. Shooting enemies and accessing items is done through a virtual recoil on the touch screen. The game features a collection of unconventional gameplay mechanics, such as chain reactions and bonus stages. When an object is picked up by the player, it can be used to interact with the environment (for example, throwing an object to knock off a villain's helmet or throwing a pack to activate a car's light switch), and when a button is pressed in a special mini-game, characters on the screen enter into actions (such as jumping into action). Depending on the tasks that the player is performing, the series' protagonists respond by saying a phrase, usually related to the task being performed. For example, when players perform certain actions with Bob, he responds with "You've got to be kidding me!" and performs an unusual action (like slamming his head into a wall); meanwhile, when performing tasks for Eric, he answers with "That was a high score!" when a special score appears.
